DETAILED ACTION

Specification

Content of Specification

The disclosure is missing a Brief Summary of the Invention. the disclosure should have a brief summary of the invention.

- (f) Brief Summary of the Invention: See MPEP § 608.01(d). A brief summary or general statement of the invention as set forth in 37 CFR 1.73. The summary is separate and distinct from the abstract and is directed toward the invention rather than the disclosure as a whole. The summary may point out the advantages of the invention or how it solves problems previously existent in the prior art (and preferably indicated in the Background of the Invention). In chemical cases it should point out in general terms the utility of the invention. If possible, the nature and gist of the invention or the inventive concept should be set forth. Objects of the invention should be treated briefly and only to the extent that they contribute to an understanding of the invention.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

- (e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

Claims 1-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Schleifstein et al. US 6,533,963. Referring to claims 1 and 5, Schleifstein teaches a microwave absorbing device in the form of a solid body and made of a composite material comprising a non-conductive matrix wherein conductive particles are dispersed, the conductive particles having a volume receptivity greater than about 2 ohms-cm (see Abstract, col. 1 lines 44-49, col. 4 line 60 col. 5 line 9, col. 6 lines 39-52).

Referring to claims 2-4, and 6-8, Schleifstein teaches the conductive particles are non-magnetic (see col. 9 lines 26-56), the conductive particles are less than about 2 megohms-cm (see col. 4 lines 60-67).

Referring to claims 9 and 10, Schleifstein teaches some or all of the conductive particles are of a material from polymer particles (see col. 9 lines 5-24).

Referring to claim 11, Schleifstein teaches some or all of the conductive particles are of a material from silicon (see col. 9 lines 5-24).

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The prior art cited to (Vargo et al.; Botrie; Strait et al.; Chamberlain et al.; Boyer, III et al.) show various microwave absorbers.
